PUBLIC MUTUAL'S EDUCATION PLANNING Preparing for Your Children's Tertiary Education

For most parents, funding for a child's education is the largest expenditure they make next to buying a home. And with the credit crunch biting hard it has never been more important to know how to finance your children's studies at university. The costs of studying for a degree are rising and the risk of not keeping a careful check on your financial situation can lead to large debts that take years to pay off, affecting your financial goals.

There are several aspects that you need to consider when planning for your children's education. For instance, tuition fees for universities abroad are normally higher than that of local universities and may vary according to programme or course. Furthermore, you need to take into account the effects of rising inflation on tuition fees as well as other key expenses such as living expenses, course materials and transportation costs.

To help parents take the first step in planning for their children's education, our Education Planning Needs Analysis will guide parents in estimating the required funding. It will also provide parents an idea as to how much time they need to accumulate the desired amount. While no one really knows the trend of future university pricing, we do know for a fact that families who plan ahead will be in a better position to handle the unexpected.

It is our fervent hope that all parents who refer to this handy guide will have a better picture and know-how in preparing for their children's future education.

Happy Planning!

* You may find it easier to do the computation using the Education Planning Calculator found in our website:
